

TRANSITING NEPTUNE SEXTILE NATAL IC

As Transiting Neptune makes its way ever so slowly through the Zodiac, it manifests itself through different channels because of its illusive behavior. Neptune is a mysterious planet and is connected to mysticism, psychic interaction, intuitive perception as well as illusions, cloudiness with perception and the wish to evade all conflict. Neptune can also be associated with acting, musical abilities, dance and in many cases, things associated with the oceans or waterways.

The IC is always opposite the MC exact to the degree and minute. Therefore, when the IC is in aspect to a transiting planet, we also need to take into consideration what aspect that particular planet will be making to the MC.

The Sextiles aspect is considered favorable and is associated with easy flow and opportunities, but these opportunities need to be taken advantage of for the energies to fully manifest themselves, if at all. The Sextile requires the receiver to work with the energies.

The IC is associated with the home and family and our heritage. When Neptune makes its positive sextile aspect to this position, the opportunities for changes to take place within the home front will be activated. Perhaps the home goes through changes that are now more in line with what you believe in or you require, such as setting up an area for meditation or changing the furniture so it is more appealing, balanced and/or comfortable. Perhaps you want to make a part of your home like a little retreat where you can go or where others can go to find peace and tranquility.

On a deeper level, which is usually the way Neptune operates, you may find a deeper connection to family members especially if the seventh or fifth house is connected in some way. You may find that it is as if you know what they are thinking or how they are feeling and would really want to assist in some way, especially if there are challenges taking hold. Mental confusion within the family unit may be part of this picture.

The family connection tends to run deeper during this connection to the IC and those you consider your family or friends might also be included in this energy, especially if the eleventh house is affected in the chart. Things might also surface from the past or from the family heritage that can be used or filtered through to get a deeper understanding of where you have come from. There may be something you uncover that is quite beneficial to you and your family at this time.

If there are opportunities that present themselves, be sure to take advantage of the energy at hand. This placement does not occur often. Of course, much depends on the other aspects making contact in your chart at the same time that Neptune sextiles your natal IC.
