

SATURN TRINE NATAL URANUS

When Transiting Saturn forms a Trine to Natal Uranus, we can make informed decisions, often involving our career, our life's path forward and our ability to take a measured and regulated approach to these areas of life. This will depend largely on what houses are involved in the the astrology chart. Houses are areas of life involvement.

Uranus natally represents a change of direction when it is time for a much-needed change. It is pioneering in its approach to life's matters and desires a degree of freedom in its expression. It is quite unique and often acts in unexpected manners, but ultimately brings change where change is needed.

Saturn while in transit (and this aspect can last several months depending on whether or not Saturn moves into its retrograde cycle as it passes over your Natal Uranus) brings more structure into your life and an added measure of stability. Saturn often produces long-lasting effects that build into a structure you can rely on as time passes.

The changes that you make during this aspect, when Saturn has its influence, are quite calculated and often considered productive because the approach instinctually by Saturn is to move slowly and deliberately without jumping, which is what Uranus wants to do. The changes might move ahead slowly (Saturn) or in some cases happen very swiftly (Uranus). It is best to approach matters with diligence and single mindedness, without swaying while making important decisions. Original ideas are now taking hold in your life, and your approach should be to maneuver ahead slowly.

The Trine often indicates easy flow and opportunities. It is wise to take advantage of this aspect as it does not happen often. It has also been noted by this Astrologer that Saturn while in transit has its most profound effects 2° past being direct. So, if Uranus is at 14° for example, Saturn will be most powerful at around 16°. This is due to Saturn's slow and deliberate action.

Transiting Saturn trine natal Uranus wants practical, disciplined life changes to take place based on a cutting-edge approach.