

SATURN SQUARE NATAL NEPTUNE

The Square between Transiting Saturn and Natal Neptune can directly affect your life especially if you have these two planetary energies closely aligned in your natal chart. Even those that do not have this aspect tight in their birth charts will feel the subliminal effects of the Neptunian energies of spirituality and the alignment with the higher sources linked with Saturn (the task-maker and builder) along with the lower energies of Saturn, (the disciplinarian, and often source of delayed action and challenges).

As you can imagine, these two planets together have struggles aligning their energies. Saturn has to do with reality and focusing on energies in constructive earth-type activities. Neptune deals with the less tangible and works in direct correlation with spirituality, intuition, psychic inclinations and the imaginative side of life.

Neptune suggests that there will be higher ideals set in place specifically indicated by Neptune's Natal position and house placement.

Saturn suggests that the core foundation must be built on stable ground if any of these Neptunian high-minded ideologies are to be fundamentally sound and have any lasting qualities. This could be classified as a testing ground for reality and the rational mind which is being established through spiritual alignment and the mystical approach in a solid structured way of living.

Saturn brings clarity to our maze of heightened awareness often associated with Neptune. Although this aspect is a square, the potential, after some hard work, for more clarity is quite profound, if you approach mysticism in a realistic and orderly fashion. You must adhere to ways that hold Neptune in sync with Saturn's need for unobstructed and clear vision. In other words, do not let your mind drift towards directions of deception or cloudiness and maintain a firm grip on reality. If you do so, you can realize factual and tangible results from intuitive insight. You can recognize truth if you take a real and honest approach.

Although your objectives may be a little unclear and it may be very challenging to deal with everyday affairs, let alone mystical pursuits, if the groundwork is in place much can be discovered and put into practice once this aspect has been conquered. Make your life as simple as possible and stay true to your beliefs even though they may seem challenged from time to time. Seek out the connectedness in all that surrounds you and challenge the "life of form" and any limited concrete belief structures that you have put in place prior to this aspect.

This is an opportunity to lift the veil of uncertainty and find greater truth. Any aspect, easy flowing or challenging, can be dealt with in order to bring a positive into each and every situation, and evolve a belief structure into something more tangible and reliable. All aspects whether natal or transit can be utilized in positive ways to help provide you with strength and the ability needed to conquer any of life's situation, even though Squares are very difficult to master. They do, however, usually force you into action, because the energies are difficult enough that you must find a resolution.

If you find that your views are pessimistic or unapproachable for some reason, take the time to review the situation as well as your own personal philosophy. By doing so, you can set things straight. Neptune provides you with the insight to achieve any of your pursuits as long as part of the process reduces the effect of ego. There must be consideration and assistance for others. Saturn provides the stable environment to achieve these things.

Transiting Saturn Square Natal Neptune will challenge your focus linked to the intangible, force you to look at things from a realistic perspective, and build a foundation based on the truth you discover during these moments of uncertainty. You must go deep for the answers.

The houses linked to these connections will be the areas of life that now need clarification, particularly the house of Natal Neptune. You will also need to check the other Natal aspects tied to Neptune and any other transits during this the time frame of transiting Saturn Square natal Neptune.