

TRANSITING NEPTUNE SQUARE NATAL ASCENDANT

Neptune, the planet of illusion, fogginess, disillusionment, as well as transferrable insight, mystical alignment, vision, and psychic intuition, in square often brings forth vague or ambiguous insight. This is a time when clarity is certainly not at its peak, and we need to be informed usually by others what exactly is transpiring in our lives.

Our clarity is distorted because what is in front of us, we might be unwilling to accept. We cloud our viewpoint because we don't want to be informed of challenges. Our objective should be to see things as they are and to not let our imagination run wild or to not allow our minds to bend the truth to fit our wants or perspectives.

When Neptune is connected to the Ascendant, this energy is often very important to us and what we are experiencing is open to the world to see. This can be relationships, but in many cases, it may be about our career, our objectives, goals in life, the home and/or family concerns.

There are roadblocks in the way and challenges to meet. These need to be met and they need to be met head-on even if what is taking place is unpleasant.

Neptune square the Natal Ascendant may have us confused on who we are or the way we should be representing ourselves in public. Are we being real, or is there some imagined concept that we wish to present to the public?

Are we seeing ourselves clearly?

Can we make changes to be who we are?

Do we know how we want to be perceived?

These are all questions we may be asking ourselves, and in many cases, this could be our career or home environment or with family.

If, for example, Transiting Neptune is in the third house, perhaps this is about the way we communicate daily or the way we view our relatives. Are we in conversation with these people and what can we do to make things clearer?

If Neptune is in the ninth house, perhaps there is litigation that needs addressing, or travel plans that are not working out as we might wish or perhaps our perception regarding our own personal philosophy on life is going through some alterations because it needs to be more clear and concise.

Much will depend on the house transiting Neptune is moving through and what natal aspects our Ascendant is receiving. Viewing the whole chart will help define what to expect and how you might handle what is going on. The natal chart tells the story, and the transits engage the action.