

JUPITER SEXTILE NATAL SATURN

Jupiter, while in transit moving through each sign (which takes about one year), will at some point make a Sextile to your Natal Saturn. The natal aspects to Saturn in the birth chart will have great importance with this placement. If Natal Saturn is poorly aspected, this placement of Jupiter will not be as simple a lesson as it would be if Saturn were well aspected natively.

Saturn in the birth chart speaks directly of the area of life that is challenged in some way. Even a well-aspected Natal Saturn still represents an area of concern, and hard work is often indicated. Some struggles can be anticipated but with certainty and a positive attitude things can work well for you if you apply yourself in whatever direction is required. Saturn is the teacher/the disciplinarian of the zodiac and suggests that we need to work for our rewards in life.

Transiting Jupiter tends to bring easy flow and opportunities when it touches our natal planetary positions and angles. Natal Jupiter's position is an area of growth and opportunity. You must integrate the natal potential with all transiting aspects but particularly when dealing with Saturn and Jupiter together. Jupiter expands and builds potential, while Saturn restricts and delays the opportunities at hand, creating some structural obstacles that need to be rectified and worked through. Structures often refer to our attitude and beliefs as well as challenges found within the environment itself.

Sextiles are similar to Trines in that they can help with situations, bring opportunities and add to the overall picture in a favorable manner. The difference is that we must engage ourselves to reap rewards with Sextiles although sometimes things may just fall into our lap. This may happen if Saturn were well aspected in the Natal chart or if there were other indicators within the aspects through transiting planets moving through the natal chart. It is always suggested, however, with a Sextile that we participate in the process to achieve the best possible results.

With Jupiter Sextile natal Saturn, Jupiter might offer a change if it is required at the time, but Saturn will resist and put obstacles in the way so that it is not an easy route to follow. With Jupiter, however, we have the opportunity to rise above Saturn's restrictions and formulate a plan that moves us forward in our evolutionary journey.

The houses involved in your chart will tell the story of the areas of life involved and the other aspects taking hold at the same time will either assist or hinder the situation. If the sextile between Jupiter and Saturn is the only aspect in place, the energies may not be that recognizable or may not cause much disruption.

Remember, Astrology always provides information on the overall picture of what is unfolding in your life at the moment.

In summary, Jupiter sextile natal Saturn offers an opportunity to overcome barriers or learn life lessons created by Saturn more easily if you put forth a little effort or do a little planning. Don't waste the opportunity when this aspect unfolds in your chart.
