

URANUS OPPOSITION NATAL NEPTUNE

The individuals experiencing the Opposition between Transiting Uranus and Natal Neptune would have to be part of the generation with Neptune in Sagittarius. The years of birth would begin late 1970 through to late 1984 (some may have Neptune in Scorpio through parts of 1984). You will have to check your ephemeris to see the location of Neptune on your date of birth.

The area of life involved with transit Uranus, depending on the house it is transiting through, needs change, and will experience an awakening or a realization and the desire for freedom through some type of evolution taking hold in your life.

Neptune is quite spiritual in its nature, and opens door through visualization, meditation, psychic awareness and spiritual unfoldment. As you can imagine, this can easily be a period of awakening and some form of spiritualization for those seeking to make more connection to the deep essence of life.

Uranus stays in one sign for about 7 years, and if it goes into retrograde, it can easily remain in orb of Neptune for up to and including one year. However, Uranus, known as the awakener, has a direct impact when it is direct to Neptune. As a result, if your Natal Neptune is at 2° 15' Sagittarius, the exact Opposition would be when it hits this position in the sign of Gemini. If tuned in, you will feel its influence as it approaches and see its ramifications near the exact time it is direct. Then after direct contact comes the understanding of its energies over the next several months.

Neptune tends to dissolve anything it touches and pushes for spiritual understanding to take place. Uranus wants to be rid of anything that no longer suits the evolutionary call and is quite happy to take the mystical approach, although it may not totally understand what is taking hold. In some cases, revolution, transformation and uprootedness can take hold and likely in unexpected ways. It needs to be understood that this overall unfolding is quite overdue. It may not be clear why this is happening to you, but your eyes will be open and a part of you is ready to take the required steps.

In many cases, other people are involved in the ongoing process. Oppositions always involve other people and their opinions or their suggestions. You may have to make decisions based on what they say, because you may not be clear on where to go and where you might be headed. You may fear the unknown territory that you are entering although change is what is required.

Uranus opposition natal Neptune needs you to look deep within and find the answers to your dilemma. Guides may assist but you will make your way forward. It will not be an easy route because you are likely comfortable where you are, yet uncomfortable at the same time. Some people have a hard time moving from what is familiar. The new is approaching; be ready for dynamic change, awakening and disruption to the so-called norm.