

JUPITER SQUARE NATAL NEPTUNE

Transit Jupiter, square natal Neptune can be in effect for several months if it goes through its retrograde cycle while making contact to your natal Neptune. Jupiter will make contact three times, if retrograde affects its movement. The first contact will be the most impactful.

The Square aspect (90° aspect) is usually considered quite challenging, and the energy is strong enough that it pushes you to act to alleviate the stress it is causing. When the Square is coming from Jupiter, its energies are far less challenging than if coming from most other planets.

Transiting Jupiter square natal Neptune is likely indicative of things not being very clear, and that your direction is uncertain. This square will push you to deal with this uncertainty or vagueness. It is, however, not overwhelming. The same transit coming from Saturn instead of Jupiter would be much more demanding and difficult to handle.

In most cases, it would be wise for you to reach out to a reliable source for clarity. Others may provide you with much-needed information that might make things a little easier. However, under other circumstances involving other outer planetary influences, Jupiter can increase the difficulty and make things over the top, especially if the situation has been going on for some time.

Jupiter should still, regardless of other influences, assist in the process and the overall outcome is likely to be more favorable than what might have been expected. Jupiter can expand on things but also brings opportunities for helpful learning experiences and an opening for positive outcomes.

The houses involved will provide you with much needed information regarding the areas of life involved.

With Transiting Jupiter square natal Neptune find a balance between being clear and unclear or dreamy. Work towards a solutions in order to enjoy a favourable outcome.

This article is not AI generated.