

NATAL AND TRANSITING PLUTO

Pluto in the natal chart has a lot to do with change and transformation. The sign it is in and the house where it is located in the natal chart will influence Pluto's energies (as with any planet).

The birth chart is a snapshot of the heavens at the moment of birth. This natal snapshot never changes.

The word transformation is the best description of Pluto's energy, as it indicates the area of life where the foremost shifts will take place. There are no halfway measures when we are speaking of Pluto. Likely something must come to an end for something new to begin. The change that takes place, in many cases, completely replaces what used to be in place.

In most cases, the shifts experiences are forceful, because Pluto has to do with power and dynamic energies. Much will also depend on how Pluto is being utilized in the birth chart. Does it have many aspects from other planets to it?

Are the planetary energies associated with Pluto well integrated with the other planets by aspect?

Are these other planets in Square or Opposition or are they in Trine or Sextile to Pluto?

Do the energies merge well together or do they signal difficulties emerging?

It should be understood that any challenging aspects often indicate life lessons that won't easily be forgotten and we must deal with them. The lessons learned will be valuable.

The more gentle or favorable aspects, although the planets involved must also be analyzed, can indicate transformations in positive terms, although much depends on if we are ready for these changes to take place.

The Natal chart tells the story of what can be expected when transits planets hit our Natal positions in our birth chart.

The natal planets never change in our birth chart but the planets continue moving and once the snapshot of the heavens has been taken and the position of the planets noted for our birth chart, the transit of the planets begin.

When Pluto is in transit, you can expect major transformations to take hold in the area of life, (house positions) linked with the planets or angles within the birth chart. Even if there are no other natal or transiting planets in the house transiting Pluto is transiting through, there will still be changes that take place especially when it crossed the house cusp and moves into the next house.

When transiting Pluto reaches another planet or angle in the Natal chart, this area will become highlighted along with the energies of transiting Pluto and the other planet or angle which is involved.

Pluto's energies are transformational and regenerative. Some major change can cause disruption but you will know in your heart that what "was" no longer fits your evolutionary path and dynamic change is required. As mentioned, there are no halfway measures when it comes to the transit of Pluto and change is almost unavoidable, but over time you will realize that it was necessary.

The Natal blueprint must be closely studied to give a complete and comprehensive explanation of what will unfold. Whatever does unfold may take up to three years to fully comprehend with Pluto.

Pluto is often unstoppable, and it is best to swim with the current of change it is presenting.

What do Natal and transiting Pluto speak of in an Astrology chart? Natal Pluto is your framework for power and transformation, and transiting Pluto sparks evolutionary change in life.