

TRANSITING URANUS SEXTILE NATAL MERCURY

Currently (June 2024) Transiting Uranus is at 24° in the sign of Taurus. It will remain in its direct cycle until September 2, 2024, when it moves into its retrograde cycle. You can use a 5–7° orb of influence to your Natal Mercury. You should also look at Uranus in your natal chart along with the transiting position of Uranus. Any aspects that Natal Uranus will also have an impact along with its house position and Mercury's Natal house position.

While in its direct cycle which makes Uranus full in its expression, you can expect a disruption to what might be considered the norm. You likely need to change on some level because things have either become dormant or you need a new direction. Uranus will awaken you to new possibilities and push you in the direction these new avenues of expression have the potential to flourish. It may take some time to realize the consequences of the energies, but know that after this connection, you will be exactly where you are required to be.

A big part of what this sextile between Uranus and your Natal Mercury is about is mental reasoning. The mind or focus is what this aspect is about. An awakening is in the process of unfolding or is already in place depending on where your natal Mercury is situated in your chart by degree.

A new train of thought, new daily activities, the formation of ideas that may enhance your perception or your life's route and new concepts may now be activated. You may have to grapple with these ideas especially if you are not comfortable with change but change you must if you are to awaken to new possibilities. Those reluctant to change may have difficulties with this placement and especially those that are fixed in their opinions and belief structures.

Even the way you express yourself may be invited to move in a new direction and others may see what is taking place and may not understand what is going on. This may also affect siblings, daily activities, short distance travel, and schooling. If this is a young individual experiencing this, some disorientation may be part of the process and their early educational activities may be subject to change.

Some individuals will make plans to travel and often this may be nearby trips. What we are referring to is this does not speak of long-distance travel. Sometimes we decide to have a visit with our siblings or visit our aunts and uncles.

We may find that we have interesting and thought-provoking conversations that we would not normally have.

Uranus sextile natal Mercury is an opportunity aspect and although often things just seem to fall into place, for more advantageous energies and opportunities to fall into place, we would do well if we initiated action that is required to make things happen.
